

AGA Roundtable Series Roundtable III

Australia's Way to a Low Carbon Economy: Triple Dividend or Spin?

Does the foreshadowed triple dividend of wellbeing, cost-saving & competitiveness and reduced environmental impact exist?

- How Australian and German Managers / Companies can contribute and benefit -

Thursday 23 July 2009 at 8.00 am

The Australian German Association is pleased to announce another interactive executive roundtable session focusing on topics with relevant outcomes for German-Australian business professionals. The AGA thanks Albert Goller and Siemens Australia Limited in agreeing to host this event at their premises in Bayswater, Victoria.

Our third roundtable session is focusing on challenges in Australia's transformation to a low carbon economy. This session offers members the opportunity to confidentially discuss how they are reacting to the current debate and foreshadowed obligations, and how they want to position themselves and their companies in the result. This roundtable discussion will provide an excellent opportunity for mutual exchange of ideas and methods and otherwise to tap into the experiences of our members. To ensure a lively discussion and valuable outcome, the session will be facilitated. Our facilitator is Dr. Wolfgang Kissel.

Objectives:

- Discussion and exchange of ideas about the low carbon economy debate
- Providing mutual support in critical situations
- Developing ideas for positioning

Preparation:

To ensure a focused discussion with tangible outcomes, participants to prepare for the roundtable by thinking through:

- how their companies build strategies for contributing to and benefiting from a low carbon economy;
- how they and their companies can contribute in building a future oriented workforce (green collar jobs);
- what could be the agenda for German / Australian managers to contribute to Australia's transformation to a low-carbon economy.
